

Rooting_Blackberries_2004.txt

Blackberry canes tip root very easily. Get some pots and fill with good soil, then peg the tips of the canes down into the soil. In a fairly short time, they should make roots and you can cut them away from the parent plant.

This works well with raspberries also. And other thorn fruits. Even roses. I do that with on anything that has a cane and stickers.