NOTE on 30-76 Mhz listings

Above includes the frequencies of Military Standard WBFM tactical radios which currently operate from 30 to 75 95 Mhz W/ .05 Mhz spacing. Newer systems will go up to 79 95, 88 00, or 100 Mhz and will use .025 spacing and will have frequency hopping capability and a new encryption system built into the radio. Your scanner can monitor WBFM without any trouble. Check the Frequency Allocation Table in part III of your Police Call Radio Guide (RS# 62-1043), if a frequency is not listed, it is probably Military WBFM. They may have a PL of 300Hz which is called New Squelch.

NOTE On 450-470 and 470-512 Mhz UHF Bands .025 Spacing Frequencies are normally issued in pairs, 5 Mhz apart, with the lower frequency the repeater output. Therefore only the repeater output is listed. Mobiles are permitted to operate on either of the two. Higher for repeater operation, or on the repeater output frequency for close, direct, or "Talk-Around" operation. Simplex frequencies are included separately. The 450 & 455 Mhz pair are used by TV & Radio stations, they are permitted to use either as the repeater output. Above 470 to 512 the plan is the same except the separation is 3 Mhz, (Each group is assigned to an unused 6 Mhz wide TV channel), and they progress up from .0125

"Splinter Operation" is allowed between existing channels in the entire range. Normally simplex is used. If a repeater is licensed it will not have over 20 Watts out, and the antenna may not be over 20 feet above ground level. These will only be listed for Confirmed station operation. (Some scanners cannot receive these in-between channels)
